

Pulaski County Last Mile Broadband Deployment Initiative

Since completion of the Pulaski County Telecommunications Study, the County has been working on steps to be taken to address last mile broadband deployment in working with private sector providers and the community. Public input and comment has been critical and crucial to the County as it continues its effort to consider next steps to begin a phased in approach to last mile broadband deployment recommended in the Telecommunications Study. To that end, the County is preparing a grant application to request funding for a project through the Virginia Department of Housing and Community Development Virginia Telecommunications Initiative (VATI) program.
